

About Empowerment Through Education (ETE)

About ETE

- Founded by Isabelle Qi and Olivia Chen, Empowerment Through Education (ETE) is a student-run, international non-profit organization based in New Jersey. We seek to raise awareness to the plight of schools in rural China. These schools face widespread funding and staffing issues, leading children - especially girls - to receive little to no education. Ultimately, this contributes to the increasing economic gap between rural and urban areas of China.

Mission Statement

- ETE hopes to spur short-term education and long-term economic improvement, providing students with new opportunities and greater resources. Language opens doors to the future, and by sharing gently used books and materials from diverse sources with students, particularly girls, we hope to not only broaden their opportunities, but reuse materials and help our environment as well.
- We bring Education, Economics, and Equality together in support of a common goal: to provide better opportunities for underprivileged students with a focus on girls.
